

I do not support any loosening of the "no call" approach currently in place. If anything, I would like to tighten it and further restrict some of the not-for-profit calls I get daily. The callers are less annoying than the product tele-marketers but it an intrusion on our limited but much needed family time.